FVORS NEUTRAL ZONE

Senator Gore Introduces a Resolution Favoring Policing of Border By Both Mexico and United States.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Jan. 17.—The establishment of a neutral zone in northern Mexico to be jointly policed by the forces of Mexico and the United States
unless disorders are speedily controlled, is proposed in a resolution introduced today by Senator Gore, democrat of Oklahoma.

Show Carranza Responsible.

Evidence collected at El Paso by state department agents indicate that Carranza authorities at Chihuahua assured C. R. Watson, head of the party of Americans killed, that no escort
was necessary.

In that opinion, however, many of the Americans agreed, although they had suggested to authorities the advisability of sending troops with the party.

The advice further stated that the Carranza governor of Chihuahua gave Watson a personal passport for the whole Watson party. These developments are taken as proof to the responsibility of the Carranza government for not adequately protecting the Americans.

Colonists Return to U. S.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 17.—Twenty-five Mormon colonists from the state of Chihuahua arrived here last night aboard
a train from Casas Grandes. Others, it was stated, were coming on a train from Parral later. General Gabriel Garcia, commander at Juarez, said
the body of Jose Rodriguez, which was to be brought to the border to prove to Americans that he had been executed, as one of the leaders of bandits who had murdered eight mining men, would not arrive until tonight.
The train bearing it was delayed by a wreck, according to Garcia.

Expect Relief Train.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 17.—The relief
train which left here several days ago to bring to the border American and other foreigners in the bandit infested region of Chihuahua, Mexico, is due to arrive today from Parral. More than 100 Americans from Parral, Chihuahua City and other points are expected to be aboard. In the wake of the Parral train officials at Juarez asserted would come another bearing the body of Jose Rodriguez, the bandit chief who was officially reported to have been captured and executed last Thursday, three days after the slaughter of eighteen mining men near Santa Fe. The train, headed by W. Wallace, the last of the Santa Ysabel expedition, was held today under direction of members of the Masonic order.

DEFECT IS BLAMED
FOR ACT OF YOUTH

Mental Infirmary Said to Have Caused Oak Park Boy to Plot Against His Parents.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Mental infirmity, the result of a boyhood injury, in the opinion of Furman D. Updike and his wife, caused their son Irving to plot against his parents' lives.

Updike, a police officer, was taken to the police station in Oak Park last night
after local police and detective agency had listened to details of the alleged plot.

Herbert Updike, a younger brother, discussed the manner in which the plotted attack should be made with Irving in the Updike garage. A sten-ographic copy of their words was prepared by the police stenographer.

Updike gave the information on such the plot came to light and is reported by the police as having been discussed in the Updike household. Dr. Wm. E. Barton, pastor of the First Congregational church of Oak Park, of which Mr. and Mrs. Updike are members, visited the police station and talked with the young man.

Mr. and Mrs. Updike authorized Dr.
Barton to make the following statement:

"Their son Irving received an injury to his spine during his school days, and since that time he has many signs of mental unsoundness."
At no time have his symptoms indicated he was dangerous, but the family has no doubt that this plot was the result of mental derangement.

"His brother, Herbert, was not guilty accomplice, but came an apparent accessory for the purpose of discovering and disclosing the plot, and his part was successful."

"His parents have full confidence in Irving and hope medical, possibly surgical treatment, will bring relief to his condition." The statement was made by both Mr. and Mrs. Updike and was supplemented by words from Dr. Barton, who said both the parents were deeply affected by the trouble.

According to Oak Park police,
Irving planned to shoot his father and mother, because he feared his father, who is now ill, would alter his will.

John R. Updike, the older brother, who was summoned from California
by letter from Herbert, said his brother had written that Irving was planning to kill his parents.

"I hurried home and communicated with a detective agency and we arranged to discover and reveal the plot," he said.

Beloit, Jan. 17.—John Pettengill, aged thirty-five, who has been confined at the Beloit General hospital
for the past few weeks with a chronic,
incurable rheumatism, committed suicide at eleven-thirty o'clock Saturday evening. He was a resident of Dur-

AMERICANS MURDERED IN COLD BLOOD BY MEXICAN BANDITS

The above photograph, taken at the Cusihiuachi mines in Mexico, shows nine of seventeen Americans killed from a train and slain by bandits near Santa Ysabel early last week. The picture is the property of Charles Watson, Jr., of Chicago, chief auditor of the mining company. At the extreme left is shown Charles Watson, general manager of the mines, a former Chicagoan. He was described by Colonel Sanborn of the First Infantry as "ten wildcats in one."

PREPAREDNESS CRY
SOUNDED BY LOW TO
CIVIC FEDERATION

Head of Federation Indorses Wilson Plan for National Defense Against European Antagonisms.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Jan. 17.—The National Civic Federation opened its 16th annual meeting today with prominent civic welfare workers from throughout the country present. Subjects for discussion included preparedness, immigration, government regulation of private industry, and other problems.
The women's section of the federation
opened a separate two days' meeting.
National preparedness was a feature of today's program, which was given over largely to the presentation of committee reports.

Low Urges Preparedness.

Seth Low of New York, president of the Federation, sounded the first note on preparedness. In his opening address, he declared that if the United States is to prevent the "antagonism and hates of Europe and its long duration of empire, from finding lodgment on this continent, every war it must be "by the strength of our own right arm, and by the willingness to die for what is certainly precious to ourselves and for what we believe to be no less precious to humanity."

Mr. Low said he favored the administration defense program, not because he thought it ideally perfect, but because it was a long step in the right direction.

"Personally," he continued, "I believe that a short service under the colors on the Swiss system, modified to meet the needs of our conditions,
should be required of every young man in the United States and that we should no longer depend upon an army which has in England strengthened by the annual burden of taxation?
Can anyone give a good reason for
not doing so?"

International Law Court.

Mr. Low expressed the hope, however, that the time would come when there would be "not only an international court with power somewhere to enforce its decrees, but some international body for adoption of international law."

"Any plan of military preparedness which makes the flag under which we live the emblem of our life, our all and not a rag with which to protect the corpse from which the spirit has fled, I welcome," declared Miss Maud Vetmore of Rhode Island, in presiding over the report of the women's department. "Preparedness against war concerns the woman," she said. "They are the only ones who carry the heavy burdens of catastrophe."

Draft Compensation Acts.

The first report of the women's department, to legislators in planning drafts of compensation laws, was indicated by August Belmont of New York in his report on the year's activities of the workmen's compensation department.

"A better subject of dispute," he said, "is whether private insurance or state managed insurance is better.
The former is the system of the United States, but the latter is the system
from the compensation law may be illustrated by the fact that it is reported that net payment to wage earners under employers' liability in Massachusetts in 1914, were estimated at less than $400,000."

Discuss Labor Questions.

A. J. Porter, chairman of the minimum wage commission, recommended that the departments of labor and commerce make a joint investigation of labor to location of industries and effect of legislation on behalf of women and children on industries and workers. Far better than the low wage system of Europe was a public social insurance, he said, the higher wage of the United States with the appropriate means to insure one's self, declared P. Tecumseh Sherman, chairman of social insurance department.

Louis A. Coolidge reported for the welfare department on profit sharing plans. Louis B. Schram spoke of causes of industrial accidents and Thos. W. Shelton dealt with the problem of uniformity of legislation and court procedure.

Other reports included those on person problems, industrial hygiene,
changes in labor conditions and growth of employers' work.

PROTESTS TOBACCO STAND UNDER DOME
OF STATE CAPITOL

Chief Justice Winslow In Newspaper Statement Says It Is Unfair to Gum-Chewers and Candy.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Jan. 17.—Chief Justice J.
B. Winslow writes in an unofficial capacity to the State Journal protesting against a tobacco stand recently located on the main floor under the dome of the new state capitol and thinks it rank injustice to the soda
fountain devotees, the gum-chewers and banana-eaters, not to be similarly treated.

Chief Justice Winslow stated:

"There are lovers of peanuts, who should not a life line be thrown to them also, in case the cocoethe peanut attacks them? Then there are the gum-chewers, the popcorn eaters,
the devotees of candy and ice cream,
comes, red-hot, bananas and soda
water; the people who find it necessary to have a shine, a shave, a haircut, or to be manicured; are all of these to be left to suffer? Perish the thought!"

"The great architect, in whose brain
that wonderful dome was conceived, evidently drew out the whole matter
and provided for the serving of all alike. It is shown there are seven more tiny passages or alcoves like the one now occupied by the cigar stand.
This would all bring in money to the state. It is not possible to say how much, but certainly no inconsiderable sum. Why not augment the revenues of the state this way and reduce the annual burden of taxation?
Can anyone give a good reason for
not doing so?"

FAVOR WITHDRAWAL
FROM PHILIPPINES

Senator Stone Also Announces Himself For Neutralization Treaty to Protect Islands.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Jan. 17.—A definite date for the withdrawal of the United States from the Philippines may be set now with the understanding that a neutralization treaty to protect the islands, would be negotiated at the close of the European war, Chairman Stone of foreign relations committee declared today during debate on Philippine bill. He said he favored an amendment in line with Senator Clarke's resolution, providing that the United States withdraw in two years after having arranged a neutralization act.

Earlier in the day Chairman Hitchcock of the Philippine committee had discussed the Clarke resolution with President Wilson. He said later the President did not favor it.

Senator Chafroth, of the committee, said he too favored neutralization.

Senator Newlands, democrat, said
he also favored early withdrawal but believed the senate should be informed as to what responsibilities the United States might still rest upon it.

Extension of the Mann white slave act to Alaska, Panama Canal zone and

QUAKER-CITY STRIKE
CLOSES 25 FACTORIES

Six Thousand Garment Workers in Walkout After Fifteen Percent
Demand Is Refused.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Philadelphia, Jan. 17.—Garment workers numbering six thousand went on strike here today for higher wages and better working conditions. As a consequence, twenty-five factories are closed. The operators say several thousand workers who are not members of the union will join the ranks of the strikers. Nearly all the strikers are women and girls.

The strikers demand a fifty hour week, a maximum of four hours a night when working nights, a 15% increase in wages, a minimum wage of $6 a week for women and $8 for men,
the appointment of grievance and arbitration committees and the supplying by employers of all material used.

PHILIPP AT BELOIT
CHARGES LA FOLLETTE
NEGLECTING DUTIES

Governor Declares Nation More Than State Needs Senior Senator
at Present Time.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Beloit, Wis., Jan. 17.—Governor E.
L. Philipp addressed two large audiences here on Sunday. In the afternoon he spoke to five hundred men in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium; and at night to a large audience at the First Congregational church. In the afternoon his subject was "True Success Through Clean Living." He commended Christian life and especially young men to cling to the Y.
M. C. A. as an agency to help through the temptations of life.

"Among things necessary to a successful life you must keep your word
and, if you are not, you must be satisfied to begin at the bottom of a profession or trade. There was never greater opportunities than now, and the young man whose life is right and whose attitude on the state working man's compensation bill for he had a good chance to get ahead."

Statesmen Are Needed.

The governor took occasion to discuss national political issues, and was frequently applauded. He said there was never a time when statesmen are more needed than now. "I say it recently, but I do not think Wisconsin is duly represented in its senior senator at Washington, who is making Governor Philipp of Wisconsin an issue rather than some of the mighty questions before the nation."

He said he felt justified in explaining his attitude on the state working
man's compensation bill for he had been misrepresented on Beloit on that subject. He was always and will ever be friendly to compensation measures,
but he asked the legislators to be slight changes in the bill for the good of all interested.

Asked Aid for Wilson.

The governor said some of the national subjects to be met are immigration and the tariff extension of trade, and asked the people to stand by the President in his effort to guide the ship
of state through these perilous times.
He said he feared parents are negligent to teach children love for a flag.

W. S. Perrigo gave a dinner to a number of friends in honor of the governor. He was accompanied by Beloit Senator Clarke, who is making a tour of the state, and Charles J.
Berlschky of Milwaukee.

MODERN APPLIANCES
RILE LUMBERJACKS

Strike With Installation of Electric Lights and Turkish Baths.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Rhineland, Jan. 17.—Peace and contentment has been raised to camps of the Park Falls Lumber company here after a threatened strike. Here is the reason for fears of a strike that "were felt by certain lumbermen: Recently the company installed electric lights in the lumber camp. The lumberjacks kicked because they had no coal with which to light their pipes as they dropped into their bunks in the evening. Then the company installed steam heat and there was another howl. The "jacks" had nothing to crowd around or spit against. But the third order was a one that came near causing a strike.
The company commanded that each employee visit a steam room that had been created "in the camp" at least once a week. The men were highly indignant for a time, but now have become accustomed to the conditions and accept the new fangled changes
as a matter of fact.

FAKE AGENT CAUGHT
WITH BANK'S MONEY

Grabs Money While Looking at Vault
But Is Caught By Bank Clerk,
Who Leaps Through Win-

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Minneapolis, Jan. 17.—Posing as an expert in electrical, burglar-proof devices for banks, a man walked into the St. Anthony Falls Bank today, snatched up a bag of money from the vault, which he was allowed to inspect, and then leaped through a plate glass door when he saw he was suspected. The bank's clerical force jumped through the hole he had made threw him over the sidewalk, and held him until the police arrived.

MONTENEGRO
ASKS PEACE
SAYS TISZA

HUNGARIAN PREMIER MAKES AN-NOUNCEMENT THAT NEGOTI-ATIONS WILL BE OPENED.

TURKS MEET REVERSE

Russians Gain in Caucasus Region
After a Week of Stubborn Fighting Turkish Statement Admits.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, Jan. 17.—The Overseas News agency announced today that Count Tisza, the Hungarian premier, announced in Hungarian parliament that Montenegro has asked for peace.

"Montenegro was asked unconditionally to lay down her arms and she accepted," the premier declared, according to the news agency report,
which is as follows:

"Montenegro asks for peace," stated
Count Tisza in the Hungarian parliament.

Montenegrins Sue for Peace.

"The proceedings under the first paragraph of the order of the day had just been completed when Count Tisza had asked permission to interrupt the discussion. He stated the King and government of Montenegro has asked the inauguration of peace negotiations.
The announcement caused a great commotion in parliament.

"We ask that before hand, Montenegro unconditionally lay down her arms," said the premier. Joyful shouts followed this statement.

"Just at this moment," said the premier, the news has arrived that the armies of the king of Serbia have been accepted."

"Since the preliminary condition
has been fulfilled," added the premier,
peace negotiations will be entered into immediately.

Austria Offers Terms

Rome, Jan. 17.—Austria, according to a press dispatch from Athens, is reported to have offered a separate peace to Montenegro on the following terms:

"Austria engaged to guarantee Montenegro territorial rights in Scutari in exchange for the cession of Mount Lovcen to Austria."

Official announcement was made by Montenegrin authorities that Scutari had been handed over to the Austro-Hungarian army. The king of Montenegro has never adhered to or intended to adhere to any separate proposals of peace, or to any armistice, with Austria.

Turk Defenses Give Way.

Berlin, Jan. 17.—After delaying a week, the advance of strong Russian forces in the Caucasus, the Turks have withdrawn, their advanced positions
several miles at some points, according to the official statement today received from Constantinople.

The statement follows:

"In the Caucasus the Russians repeated their attacks against Turkish positions on both sides of the Aras, suffering heavy losses, especially in the district between the Aras and the Indj valley. Here Turkish advanced posts retired some kilometers after having delayed a strong enemy forces for one week."

Regarding operations in Mesopotamia
the statement says:

"There has been intermittent artillery fire near Kut-el-Amara. The following official statement was issued today:

Western front: There were no events of importance. In the town of Lena sixteen inhabitants were killed or wounded by the artillery fire of the enemy.

Eastern front: Military activity is hampered by snow storms along a greater part of the front."

Prince Visits Constantinople.

London, Jan. 17.—The Central News correspondent at Amsterdam sends the following:

"An unconfirmed rumor from Zurich says Prince Rist, Frederick, second son of Emperor William, has visited his uncle, King Constantine of Greece,
on a special mission from the German government."

In the East.

London, Jan. 17.—An announcement was made in the house of commons
today that the Turkish forces in Mesopotamia have fallen back to within fifty miles of Kut-el-Amara. The announcement was made by J. A. Chamberlain, secretary for India, who said the Turks retreated as a result of another British victory. The Turkish position at Wadi, he said, was carried on Saturday by the British.
This is the second defeat for the Turks in Mesopotamia in the last few days as given in British official reports. It was announced in London yesterday that the Turks had been beaten at Orak on the Tigris, twenty-five miles below Kut-el-Amara and by the army of General Avel-meyer, which is advancing in an attempt to form a junction with the original British expedition under General Townsend, which is now at Kutel-Amara.

This army retired to that point on December 25, having been defeated in an advance on Bardad after getting within twenty miles of the city.
It is now surrounded and hard pressed
by the Turks.

INVESTIGATE CAUSE OF EXPLOSION THAT WRECKED SUBMARINE

Into Cause of Blast on E-2—
Edison Battery Absolved
From Blame.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Jan. 17.—The cause of the explosion within the hull of the submarine E-2 in the New York navy yard Saturday by which four men were killed and ten injured, was still undetermined today. A board of investigation appointed by Admiral Usher
continued its inquiry and it is expected it will complete its work today and forward its report to the navy department.

Louis G. Miles, chief electrician of the E-2, John H. Hays, gunners mate, and Guy H. Clark, Jr., machinist mate,
who were injured by the explosion,
are in a serious condition in Brooklyn hospital.

A statement issued last night by Miles C. Hutchison, chief engineer for Thomas A. Edison, and member of the naval advisory board, absolved
the Edison storage battery from the disaster with which the boat was guiltless.

Officials conducting the two inquiries—civil and naval—into the cause of the internal explosion Saturday in the submarine, were convinced today
it was learned at the naval yard that the accident was due entirely to natural causes. They were giving no consideration to the suggestion that outside fire might have been responsible,
it is said.

Three of the six enlisted men who were injured were still in a critical condition today at the naval hospital.
The fourth civilian in casualty hospital was sufficiently recovered to be questioned by Coroner Wagner. Three of them said they were suffering from colds last Saturday and were unable to detect the possible presence of fire within the hull. The fifth man, a however, said he smelled only the usual odor of gas and oil previous to the explosion.

ITALIAN ATROCITIES
CHARGED BY AUSTRIA

Information Today Given Out Through Berlin—Charge Unnecessary Killing and Other Acts.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, Jan. 17.—The Overseas
News Agency today gave out the following:

Italian atrocities in the Austrian territory have been reported from the Hungarian press quarters. Seven inhabitants of one village were shot dead on suspicion of having murdered an Italian soldier.

Afterward the innocence of all seven persons was established. The inconsistency of the accusation is plain, inasmuch as Italians had confiscated all arms and munitions, when the territory was occupied.

"Further, it is known, that an Austro-Hungarian patrol of ten soldiers in duty between Montafone and Sa-grade was assassinated. The members of the patrol were taken prisoners by a superior Italian force after a short fight. They were disarmed and killed."

The statement in part reads:

"Since the beginning of the battle in East Galicia and Besarabia, the Austro-Hungarian forces have taken five thousand one hundred prisoners, including thirty officers. Austro-Hungarian patrols routed Russian field
guards near Karpiovka."

SPANISH SHIP SUNK;
SAVE TWENTY-THREE

Steamer Belgica Goes Down Says
London Report—Belgian Ship
Afire at Sea.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Jan. 17.—The Spanish steamer Belgica has been sunk. Twenty-three members of the crew were saved.

The last mention of the Belgica in available maritime records notes her arrival on Jan. 12 at Laysan, Hawaii, from Sagunto, Spain. The steamer was owned by the Interna-

the Allies.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, Jan. 17.—The Austro-Hungarian government has entered a verbal protest with the American repre-
sador at Vienna, Frederick C. Pennington, against occupation by French Corfu, which is a flagrant violation of London treaties of 1832 and which says the Overseas News agency. "The Austro-Hungarian government points out that Great Britain and France have again manifested disregard for general principles of international law. The American ambassador has been asked to communicate the protest to Great Britain and France."

SPORT PREDICTIONS FOR PRESENT YEAR

Baseball Situation Is A Hit Or A Miss. One Or Two Doped To Lose.

New York, Jan. 17.—Sporting south-eyers are long on speculation for the coming year, but mighty shy on predictions. The fight situation, essentially a winter game, has an edge on the other fields in the matter of general interest. Much of the future talk concerns the possibilities of new champions in 1916. Kid Williams, bantam king, and Freddie Welsh, ruler of the lightweight, were slated for the outer darkness, with Johnny Ertle and Charley White strongly pressing toward the golden limelight. Jess Ward seemed secure behind his defense of the title, but a finish fight and able to defend himself in limited bout. Ted Lewis, conqueror of Willie Ritche, was cruising along as the leading welterweight, but interest in that class has been revived and Lewis will have plenty of opposition before his claim to the title is cleared.

The baseball middle still is too foggy for accurate prognostication. No one knows where the Red players are going and there is no gauge on the relative strength of the teams as they will lineup next year. Boston, Chicago and Detroit have an edge in the American league, but in the National the veil still covers league and club conditions. The Browns, with Branch Rickey's excellent machine and Fielding Jones, lead stars, also are reckoned seriously in the American league.

The football situation too is nebulous, even the coaches themselves considering the time to early for real plans for the 1916 campaign. Revision of the rules will make little difference in the style of next year's playing, however, and the championships ought to be decided under virtually the same conditions as in 1915.

No one seems able seriously to dispute William M. Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin, the California champions, on the tennis courts and they are expected to repeat in 1916. Miss Molla Bjurestedt, of Norway, the women's champion, also partook of invincible qualities along with the pair from the "I Love You" State.

Duke Kahanamoku, the Hawaiian, appeared to have the sprint honors in swimming sewed up for another year. Lucy Langer of Los Angeles, intermediate, and Ed Gosselin long distance peddler, good prospects to repeat in their respective fields.

Golf experts noticed a tendency of the older golfers to refrain from competition in the tournament of 1915 and the championship field of 1916 was reckoned almost exclusively as a young man's field. Robert J. Gardner of Chicago was the amateur champion in 1915 and Jerome Travers, of Montclair, N. J., the open champion.

J. H. S. TAKES FIRST DEFEAT OF SEASON

Edgerton Highs Win From Locals In Game Saturday Night—Score 35 to 15.

Hampered by unfavorable conditions the Janesville high school basketball tossers took their first defeat of the year from the Edgerton high school Saturday night in the Tobacco City gymnasium. The game was a close one, the score being 35 to 15, in favor of the locals and followers say the referee too, so consequently the local team suffered. In the first half of the struggle, Janesville played to a standstill and at the end of the period the score was 12 to 11, Edgerton being only one point in the lead. The first five minutes of play made things look as though the game would be interesting for the Janesville rosters. Weirick scored two or three field goals and then the referee ruled seven fouls were called on local players. Seven fouls were called on local players. Seven fouls were called on local players. Seven fouls were called on local players.

The second half opened with a rush and in a few minutes four or five baskets were registered by Edgerton players. Fouls were failed to be seen and the football type of playing was used to great advantage by the winners. Edgerton is represented by a bunch of fighters and they will run strong for the championship of this part of the state. C. McIntosh, the heaviest scorer for the winners, getting six field goals and five free throws. A return game will be played with this team and the local players with the results will be a little different. This week Coach Keck will put all efforts in whipping his men into shape for the game Friday night with Madison Lineups.

J. H. S. 15—Richards, 1; Weirick, 1; Cronin, 1; E. H. S. 35—N. Clark, 1; M. Ogden, 1; C. McIntosh, 1; R. Williams, 1; F. Tomson, 1; Sweeney, Earl, substitutes.

Field Goals—Richards 4, Weirick 2, Viney 1, Clark 3, Ogden 4, McIntosh 6, Williams 2.

EASTERN FIVE WINS FROM CARDINALS IN GREAT GAME, 12 TO 5

OSWEGO, NEW YORK, BEATS CARDINALS SATURDAY AFTER HARD BATTLE.

BEST GAME OF SEASON

Lakotas Leading at End of First Half Through Close Guarding But Lost Out in Second Period.

Eastern style of basketball went up against western basketball when the Lakotas Cardinals clashed with the Oswego, New York, team at the Auditorium Saturday night, and the eastern methods once again demonstrated its superiority, as the Lakotas were defeated by a score of 12 to 5. In many ways the game Saturday was the most remarkable ever played on the Auditorium floor, and over eight hundred spectators watched the shifting fortunes of the game with unlimited enthusiasm.

backboard. Then the Lakotas had to give the same stunt all over again. Following the Lakotas' lead with a long basket and the score was tied when Tormey stood over to one side, glanced around a bit, took a squint at the goal and dropped the ball through. The half ended when Hemming put in the only foul goal made during the game with the Lakotas leading by a point.

In the second half, Hemming was taken out and Atwood shifted to center and Fletcher put into the game at forward. The Cardinals got over-anxious and confident in following the Oswego phantoms down the floor, but a trifle too far and—bingo, in went two goals that decided the game. Dispute was raised over the rule on the double dribble and it would take a Philadelphia lawyer to interpret the rule and not see how the easterners violated. They dribbled in all directions, stole, passed and started again. The Oswego bunch refused to take on "roughing," for they knew all the tricks and angles of this game and when it came to exchanging "fond" greetings they had a means of splitting the decision. They could hold like a straight-jacket when they had to and once they got hold of Edler or Dalton, these players would not let go. There was no "ball" as going through them with the ball to score.

HAMLET WITHOUT HAMLET.

The meeting held on Saturday evening at the Myers theatre, scheduled as the time and place where the senior senator would speak, was a success. It was not a failure of the local committee, it was no fault of the seven hundred odd citizens who gathered, many from some distance, to greet their senator, but due to the unfortunate circumstance that Senator La Follette was in Madison at his home, confined to his bed with an attack of grippe, which was even hinted might develop into something more serious.

The gathering was like the play of Hamlet, without Hamlet. Mr. Olbrich did his best; former state Senator J. J. Blaine, called in to speak at the eleventh hour, certainly did his best, and Mr. Anderson tried to do his best, but the meeting lacked the snap and ginger the audience expected and they were disappointed.

True, there was Blaine of Boschob, former state senator, later a Wilson republican, organizing clubs for the election of a democratic president, and later independent candidate for the election of governor against the regular republican nominee. Blaine certainly can not claim he is a republican although he is now posing as a candidate for delegate to the national republican convention in the third congressional district. Blaine did the best he could but his best was not satisfactory to the audience that went to hear a man like La Follette.

Olbrich, law partner of John Aylward, democratic "war boss" of Wisconsin and chief mover in all things that comprise the alliance of the republican-democratic wing of the Wisconsin political faction, talked some on national issues, some on cows' dung in milk, and generally abused the Philipp administration. Olbrich is a ready talker, but he was not the senior senator whose seat is vacant at Washington, and the audience was disappointed. They showed it by deserting and going to the basketball game in swarms.

WATCHFUL WAITING STILL.

The brutal murder of Americans and others in Mexico on occasion no surprise to those familiar with conditions there and who have not been misled by the specious sophistries expounded from the White House. From the beginning of his administration President Wilson has been warned by everyone whose advice was worthy of respect that the Mexican "revolutionists" were merely barks, wholly unworthy of the slightest encouragement from the United States. At least two members of Mr. Wilson's own cabinet, Messrs. Garrison and Lane, have repeatedly implored him to stop the supply of arms to these bandits, and all those best informed on the situation warned him that if he persisted in his determination to oust Huerta chaos and anarchy and unspeakable outrages would follow.

Wilson turned a deaf ear to these warnings, caused the insurgents to be supplied with the very guns which are now being used to murder American citizens, employed the army and navy to drive Huerta out, publicly declared that the Mexicans must be free to take as many lives as they wished, issued repeated warnings to insurgent leaders that they would be "personally responsible" for the killing of Americans, and never even attempted to make good his words. He treated with Villa, despite his well-known brutal character and his record as a murderer, and finally, when public criticism of President Wilson became too severe in this country, he recognized as president, Carranza, who had never missed an opportunity to haunt and insult the United States and who possessed no single qualification as a ruler. As a result of Mr. Wilson's policy, the Mexican bandits have naturally come firmly to believe that the sport least likely to be attended with harm to themselves is the killing of Americans. The unintelligent Mexican regards the United States with hatred and contempt and the intelligent Mexican holds this country, and rightly so, responsible for a large share of the terrible suffering to which the Mexican people have been subjected. They realize that it was President Wilson's "butting in" which alone has placed their country at the mercy of the cutthroats and cut-throats who now terrorize it. According to a reputable newspaper correspondent, Mark S. Watson, sent to Mexico by the New York "Sun" and the Chicago "Tribune" and now there, the Wilson administration has not hesitated to give out statements regarding Mexican conditions which it knew to be false, in order to deceive the American people into believing that things are less bad than they are. Mr. Watson reports that there are 60,000 cases of typhus in Mexico City alone, which at the present death rate will mean at least 12,000 deaths, and the chief responsibility for this condition rests on Carranza, who would not let the American Red Cross deal with the situation at the start, and on President Wilson, who forced the Carranza regime on the Mexican people. Ever since Mr. Wilson recognized Carranza, Americans have been killed and outraged almost daily, generally by the Villistas, sometimes by the Carranzistas, but in all instances without Carranza—who hates and despises Americans as much as Villa—raising a hand to prevent it. Only when the bandits murder Americans in blocks of fifty or two hundred, and the newspapers widely herald the fact, does President Wilson pause in his scheme to make personal political capital out of the European situation long enough to take heed of the wanton outrages perpetrated on American citizens just across the border.

JUST BOYS.
Much of the story-telling of the past generation reflected the spirit of the age, dividing characters into the bad or the good.

The bad must be shunned by the favored good. And goodness seemed to consist largely in not doing wrong. The child of superabundant activity, seeking outlets for restlessness, was always being admonished to cultivate the passive virtues of the quiet, shy, inactive boy.

The restless child, nagged, misunderstood, often abused, through discipline and the very dominance of his will, may emerge into the man of power and influence who can laugh over his boyish escapades and thrashings. Or the bad boy, so-called, may become the really bad man.

The quiet little pattern boy, on the other hand, required no attempt. He is no menace to comfort or harmony. If he is subactive, so much the better for the peace of the community. It goes without saying, that he often becomes the colorless, negative person lacking decision of character, waiting for others to take the initiative.

The modern social worker sees in the restless boy a capacity for strenuous work and play, and this is furnished him.

The sub-active child is not left as a finished product. He is a problem to be dealt with. If he is not developed to the full stature of manhood, society is to be the loser. So, from kindergarten age up, he is urged to play his part. A boy's report sent from camp certifies that the boys were "morals," but ascertained that the boys were judged by a display of community spirit and helpfulness to others. Goodness was not a negation at that camp.

The passive boy, too lacking in initiative to make any trouble, may become in later years the willing tool of more active and vicious minds. The boy who is daring enough to break rules, may be powerful enough to enforce rules, if the spirit of loyalty to community can be aroused in him. Let us try to have less waste boy products; don't understate the troublesome boy; don't overlook the quiet one.

WATER DEFENSES.

"There is one phase of American preparedness which is palpable, pressing and decisive. Nature, which has been most prodigal in its benefits to the United States, has not been niggardly in the responsibilities it imposes for their maintenance and protection," says the Wall Street Journal.

"Great European ports are protected by the sea, and the sea is the element of defense. London on the Thames and Bremen on the Weser are fifty miles inland. Hamburg on the Elbe is 75, Bordeaux on the Gironde, 80, and Antwerp on the Scheldt 52, Liverpool on the Mersey, Hull on the Humber, Glasgow on the Clyde, and Rotterdam on the Maas have, all of them, shore protection, and the security of Constantinople has been shown in the toll of lives of the gallant men who sought to force the straits protecting it.

"Three great American ports, the three greatest in respect to their importance to commerce—New York, Boston, and San Francisco, are on the sea. Two of the five boroughs of New York City have short front on the Atlantic. Two other boroughs, Manhattan and Richmond, are well within the range of naval guns. The Bronx is open to the Long Island Sound. In five hours' bombardment the material damage to New York, Boston or San Francisco would mount, perhaps into billions, and without the possibility of protection, except through adequate defense.

"Nature, which protects the ports of European countries, leaves to the prescience and patriotism of men, the safeguarding of the three great tide-water ports of the United States."

The cat with its nine lives is no longer a creature of distinction; it has been outclassed by Gen. Villa, the Crown Prince of Germany, Emperor Franz Joseph and several other notables.

ROY K. MOULTON

Why does your youngster always squall when he's on exhibition?
Why does the tomcat always growl when he wants a sleep?
Why do the big feeds always come when you're not in condition?
Why must you always give away the things you'd rather keep?

Why does the servant always quit when guests you have invited?
Why does the phone bell always ring just after you've retired?
Why does your dentist always look as though he was delighted?
Why do you say that you've "regained" when all you know you are fatter?

Why do your friends when you're alive, sign you as good friends when you're dead?
Why do they always somehow save their praises till you die?
How is it some things always come to this world when they don't want to?

The only answer Echo gives, and Echo answers, "Why?"

"I know an old gink who's Hank Purdy. I know an old gink who is the smoothest horse trader in this country. He has the kindest face I ever saw, and he is really a terrible good fellow. In fact, he is almost too good to be true. When it comes to horse flesh I wouldn't trust him any further than I could throw a bull by the tail. Otherwise he is all right. He can doctor up a horse so it would fool Pop Geers. A little while back he sold one at a fancy price to a neighbor. It was about a $7 horse to start with, not more than that. The next day the horse was taken sick and died. The neighbor called our friend over and demanded an explanation. 'Well, I'll be damned,' said the latter. 'I am certainly surprised. I never saw that horse do that before.'

AMERICAN ENGINEERS
ERECTING LOCOMOTIVES
FOR USE IN RUSSIA
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Peking, Jan. 17.—Twenty American engineers and experts are busy engaged at Harbin erecting locomotives shipped from the United States to the Russian government. Both the Baldwin company and the American Locomotive Works are experts here, assisting the Russians in their efforts to get adequate locomotive power for the Trans-Siberian Railway.

The locomotives coming from America are loaded at Vladivostok. They are knocked down into as small pieces as possible, and boxed in America for shipment. Upon their arrival at Vladivostok, the engines are rushed on to Harbin, where the facilities for erecting them are better than in Vladivostok.

Because of the slides in the Panama Canal, the delivery of the locomotives was made to Harbin, where the engines are being erected. It requires several weeks to erect an engine, and the first of the American engines to reach Siberia will be put into commission this week.

All told four hundred and fifty locomotives have been sold by American manufacturers to the Russian government. These are now coming to Vladivostok by way of the Suez, and will be routed via Panama as soon as the canal clears. It is estimated that the delivery of these locomotives will extend over one year.

W. F. Carey of St. Paul, Minn., a member of the firm of Siemens Coy. Construction Co., has arrived in China and will open offices in Peking, preparatory to undertaking railway construction and similar heavy work.

This American firm had made large construction contracts on the Grand Trunk Pacific in Canada, and is the first American company engaged in general construction work to open a permanent office in China.

The fields and meadows were wet, but it was not raining. It had stopped. "Pardon me," said the tall man with the paper collar, as he leaned over to see what book the short man with the triple chin was reading. "The Strange Case of Bottles." Is it good, sir?

"Oh, excellent, excellent," replied the man with the triple chin. "In fact, if you are thinking of buying a book, sir, I strongly recommend it. I am in a position to know that it is selling in thousands, sir, in thousands. In fact, I am the publisher."

The tall man tore off a bit of his paper collar and meditatively chewed it. "I am glad to hear you say that," he said, "because I am the author."

The short man clutched his third chin and half lost consciousness. "Why—well, it may be a good seller," he stammered with glazed eyes. "But there are difficulties—lots of difficulties—a low gurgie he slid onto the floor, completely unconscious."

A Great Chess Player.
Sir Walter Parratt had an extraordinary meeting. Some eight or ten men were assembled one evening in one of the lodges attached to St. Michael's college, Tenbury. Sir Walter Parratt and Herr von Holst played in turn upon the piano such music as was asked for. This went on for some time until at last the chessboard was brought out. Sir Walter then proposed to play two men at chess in consultation, still remaining at the piano and playing from memory what was demanded either from Bach, Beethoven, Mozart, Chopin or Mendelssohn. Without even a glance at the chessboard he won the game in an hour—London Globe.

ASKS FOR PRISON TERM FROM JUDGE; HE GOT ONE YEAR

George Hemp Sentenced to Waupun for Burglary.—Mrs. Burnett, formerly Mable Griffin, in Court Again.

There were five men and one woman before the municipal court this morning for various offenses, consequent upon a busy session in the afternoon. George Hemp was sentenced to the state prison, another man, George, was sentenced to the county jail, and the drunkenness and disorderly charges. "If they can cure me of the habit, I want to go to state's prison and let them try it," said Hemp, when he was arraigned for trial on the charge of day-time burglary.

Hemp was arrested a week or two ago when he was caught in the medicine room of Dr. Sutherland, in the act of dumping out of a bottle into his hand, and was taken to the police station. He was admitted his guilt, but his attorney, H. Peterson, hoped to bring out the fact that Hemp was not a plain larceny and not a burglar, but a man who was in court one minute pleading not guilty and pleading guilty the next. When his plea of guilty was finally accepted, he was sentenced to one year in Waupun, beginning today at noon. The court expressed his opinion that Hemp would be given time for the drug habit at the penitentiary and that the Rockford police officer expressed a willingness to be sentenced there.

One other "snow-bird" was Henry Williams, who was arraigned for vagrancy. On his promise to find a job in the shortest possible time, he was released and the complaint dismissed by the court.

Mrs. Fred Burnett, formerly Mable Griffin, was brought before court to answer to the charge of second offense drunkenness. She was arraigned on a complaint attached to it. Her husband, Fred Burnett, Frank Sager and Eugene Miller, were the other alleged violators of public peace.

Sundays covering the four o'clock, the patrolman covering his beat along Main street, had his attention attracted by the sound of suspicious melody floating out on the crisp, clear morning air. The sound of the song and merry jingle came from a street where Paddy Miller resides. On investigation he deemed it advisable to call on the officer and determine who was holding a musical so early in the morning and why. The two officers found out, finding four men and two women in an alleged state of intoxication. The four men and Mable, the officer thought, were disturbing the dignity of the state of Wisconsin and "planned" them. The other three were not arrested.

This morning in court every one stepped up to the justice every one with uniform regularity, pleaded not guilty to the complaints. Frank Sager was charged with second offense drunkenness and his case was set for the 27th. Bail was set at three hundred dollars. The police say that children of this defendant are without sufficient support because of the father's alleged delinquency. "Almost starving" were the words used by Chief of Police Champion in stating their condition.

One woman simply stood up and said "not guilty" to the second offense complaint. Her bail was set at three hundred dollars.

Paddy Miller and Fred Burnett had their cases set for January 24, as was Mrs. Burnett's. None of the three were able to furnish bail, so were committed to the county jail, until their examination trial.

As Mrs. Burnett walked out of the court, she expressed a desire to have a legal representative to protect her from the spoils of the law.

LOOT FREIGHT CARS FROM CHICAGO YARD

Thieves Ransack Four Merchandise Cars, Taking Only Nominal Amount—Office is Entered.
Police and railroad detectives are attempting to find thieves who broke into four merchandise cars that arrived from Chicago, and were looted in the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul freight train from Chicago. While the loss from the theft is only nominal, the thieves looted all the cars, piling and strewing merchandise all over in their search for desired property.

One of the cars was billed for Janesville merchants and from the boxes in this car a half dozen pairs of shoes were stolen. A considerable amount of groceries. The thieves evidently used a crow-bar in opening up the boxes and dragged all the goods out for inspection. Nearly all of the boxes were empty. The other three cars contained merchandise for other cities on the Mineral Point division of the railroad. In one car a box of safety matches had been ripped apart and the matches scattered all over. The total amount of property cannot be fully determined at the present time, but an estimate of the loss through the theft was placed at twenty-five or thirty dollars.

The broken seals on the cars were discovered when the freight train arrived at the Janesville yards. The police were notified and made an investigation. It is thought that the cars were looted either in the Chicago yards or en route to Janesville, the thieves ransacking the train while it was in motion and making their escape at one of the stations.

A petty sneak thief who broke into the office of Plowright and Menzies, 152 South River street, got but slight reimbursement for his nefarious work. A window was removed by the thief to get into the office. His total loot was a nickel watch and thirty cents worth of revenue stamps. The safe had been empty and unlocked. This is the first time the watch has been stolen. It having been recovered after having its first experience in crime.

POULTRY SHOWING AT RINK WILL BE MOST GIGANTIC

Show Will Be in Swing By Tomorrow Afternoon.—Many Birds Will Be on Exhibition.
Today was a busy day at the rink building, as many men were at work getting ready for the eighth annual showing of the Southern Wisconsin Poultry association. At the arrival of every train loads of prize fowls were taken down to the Auditorium and everything will be in full swing and it is estimated that between twelve and fifteen hundred birds will be on exhibition. This showing will be one of the largest ever held in the state, and conditions indicate that it will be the best in Wisconsin.

A special feature of the show this year is that the association has provided exhibits with new cages. These cages are a new idea in the showing of chickens, and all shows in the future are adopting them. They are constructed of wire which will enable the spectators to get a clear view of the exhibits.

This morning one of the old time chicken fanciers and an active one at the present time were seen grooming up their feathered friends and putting on the finishing touches before the doors are thrown open to the public. This will be a common sight during the next few days especially at the time before the judges will appear to award honors.

The prize birds which will be given away in the show free contest may be seen at the show in the pens on the right side of the building. The free contest is another big feature of the show this year. Starting tomorrow afternoon and continuing through every afternoon and evening this week three prize fowls will be given away. Every person paying admission to the show will receive a number, a duplicate of which will be kept at the office. A number will be drawn out of a lot and the person having the corresponding number will receive the prize. A total of thirty birds will be given away. The winning number will be posted in some conspicuous place at the show room.

Officials of the specialty clubs that are holding the annual showing here at this time will arrive from the division of the Rhode Island Red will be Secretary and Secretary E. M. Webb of Waukegan, Wis., and the Wisconsin Black Orpington club will have W. H. Farnum, president of the association, and secretary of the club, L. I. Fairman, to attend to their end of the showing.

From this village site, once inhabited by the people of the noted Winnetago chief, White Crow, a large quantity of Indian stone and other objects of interest have been discovered. These objects have been collected by archaeological investigators. For several years Mr. Skavlem has been engaged in studies of the methods employed by the aborigines in the manufacture of the flint arrow and spear points, knives, perforators, stone axes, hatchets, pipes and other articles used by them. The results of these investigations he will present today.

HARRY MARSHALL DIES ON SUNDAY

Former W. Milwaukee St. Restaurant Proprietor Called After Seven Weeks' Illness.
Harry Marshall passed peacefully away at his home, 208 Riverside street, Sunday morning at eight o'clock. He was sick for nine weeks and had been in bed for seven weeks. Through all he was patient and enduring, never complaining.

Mr. Marshall was born in Beloit, thirty-one years ago, but has lived in Janesville since boyhood. For the past year he has conducted a restaurant at 215 West Milwaukee street.

Nine years ago last November he was married to Miss Susie Jungblut of this city. Besides his widow and two small children, John and Gertrude, seventeen months, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Mulligan, four sisters, Mrs. Marshall, and one brother, Edward, all of this city.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at nine o'clock from St. Mary's church. Interment will be in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Joseph Croak.
The funeral of the late Joseph Croak was held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's Catholic church. The Rev. Fr. W. A. McCann celebrated requiem mass and delivered the funeral sermon. He was assisted by the Rev. Fr. Baccara, chaplain at the city hospital, the Rev. Fr. McDermott of Evans and the Rev. Fr. Downes of Whitewater. A large number of friends of the deceased were present.

Quite a number of religious services were here from Albany. The pallbearers were: Thomas Dampney, Daniel Flannery, Philip Doherty, Joseph Flannery and Joseph E. Connors. Interment was made at Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Charles F. Siebel.
The funeral of the late Charles F. Siebel was held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock from the home in Hanover and an hour later from the Trinity Lutheran church. The Rev. Richard Phifer officiated. Members of the Willowdale Camp of Woodmen of the village of Hanover, attended the services in a body. The pallbearers were: Herman Siebel, John A. Ludolph, William Siebel, Charles Siebel, Marvin Caradine and George Siebel. Burial was made in Plymouth cemetery.

TEEN AGE WEDDINGS SHOW DAN CUPID IS BUSY IN LEAP YEAR

Unprecedented Number of Applicants For Licenses Bring Parents to Vouch Permission.
An impetus has evidently been given to the marry young idea in Rock county. Evidence is found in the records of County Clerk Howard W. Lee's office since the first of the year. Under the bride-to-be, taking cognizance of 1916 being Leap Year, are succumbing to the wiles of the orthodox God of Love, Sir D. Cupid, or not the marriage license stubs fail to show but it is a recognized fact that there has been a steady and continual rush for licenses from Rock county boys and maidens still in their teens.

Mr. Lee and his deputy, Miss Frances Hall, have not been so forward as to inquire as to who stepped the question but both relate that in their own and private opinions, employment in such a capacity, they rarely proven to be correct.

Today two teen age couples were granted licenses. Paul R. Walker and Ruth Weidman, both of Beloit, and both eighteen, were the first this year to continue the precedent opened by the first business of the year. Walker's father appeared and gave his consent to the son's marriage. The bride, too, being eighteen, did not have to bring her parents to vouch for her.

The second couple was William G. Ballman of the town of Center, and Rose V. Gerber of the town of Plymouth. Ballman is eighteen and his wife-to-be, three years his junior, sixteen. Martin B. # FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

By ALFRED W. McCANN (Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)

CHAPTER 4.

Gross evils are winked at in the preparation of human food with the same kind of adulation of cattle is followed by prosecution.

Properly to understand the meaning of the phrase "our daily food," we must first discover how the food is prepared, what it accomplishes, why does it do it, and how to put an end to its abuses.

This greatest temptation to juggle with his product is inspired by the people themselves. The subject of insufficient work or industry is not going to creep into this discussion, but in passing it must be said that in scanty incomes is frequently the cause of the standard of living which attributes an artificial value to "bulk," overlooking substance and quality; overlooking the industry that deals in little white packages in the food and desperate competition which induces fraud, the false adulteration.

People want a lot for their money. Money is attracted by "large" packages or "cheap" packages. The "cheap" makes an extraordinary appeal. When the size and the price look right few questions are asked. People are prone to accept even the shape of the package as evidence that its contents are all that they ought to be.

No questions are asked as to whether its contents will feed the lives of life or whether they will slowly, insidiously, stealthily burrow into the living temple to destroy it.

To gain some trade advantage over a competitor the food faker must make his first and strongest appeal to the eye. He can produce a "large" product or a "cheaper" product, or a "cheaper" product, the means by which this empty object is accomplished is not considered.

This begins the work of puffing, building, filling, extending. The laws the trick of giving to the bulk product that shadow of honesty which covers the truth against discovery. At this point, however, must be added with added flavor, manufactured in the laboratory. The innocent and "harmless" mass is kept from rotting by the use of legalized preservatives.

There are five chief evils recorded against the food faker. The first four can be named the filler evil, the color evil, the flavor evil, and the preservative evil. The fifth and most insidious evil of them all, which you are not yet prepared to condemn, but which will be treated in due time and in its proper place, is responsible for tenfold—yes, a hundredfold—more miseries than all the other evils combined.

The filler evil is now regarded as a crime by all the well-informed segments of agriculture where poultry food is the food is concerned. As far as ship is concerned the federal government also recognizes the filler as a crime. The manufacturer who practices it is required to leave some inconspicuous evidence behind in the form of small print upon the label.

In such food no one is concerned in the state in which they are manufactured and do not cross the state line evidence is required except in a few communities where a commissioner of agriculture is active.

The experiment stations of nearly every state in the union have shown to the agricultural department the enormity of feeding cowfeed and earth-food, which have been followed by many successful prosecutions.

However such prosecutions have been based on no other ground than the evil so complacently tolerated in the preparation of human foods.

In other words, cattle food and fertilizer are considered by the state and federal governments as of more importance than human food. As we go along the reason for this will be revealed and its proper place the remedy will be suggested.

Dr. Wiley's first work, away back in 1882, was the rejection of worthless fillers from the earth-food fertilizers sold to farmers for replenishing soil with the food elements consumed by last year's crop and which were fore had to be put back into the earth the following year.

The commercial cowfeed, loaded with foodless materials like the common earth-food, was found to fail utterly in the work which it was intended to accomplish and now, after thirty-five years of common-sense experience with soil, plants and animals, with thorough knowledge of the meaning and cause of soil-starvation, crop failure and animal disease, our poor human beings are still in the potholing the idea of pure food for their children.

For the plant, pure food for the animal; for man and his children—anything.

Those who manufacture foodless foods for human beings tell us we have no complaint right to interfere with their industry. Education of the masses, however, will bring about the necessary change. The facts will follow in battalions.

WEST CENTER

West Center, Jan. 14.—Wm. Quarless met with a painful and somewhat serious accident last week Wednesday, when he fell off a load of hay. While he was not unconscious, he was unable to resist the maddest assistance. It was found upon examination by Dr. Harvey, who was immediately called, that no bones were broken nor internal injuries sustained. He has practically recovered, except some stiffness in the neck. He was thrown against a bob sleigh with his head, causing bleeding from nose and ears, making the accident seem the more serious.

MILTON HIGH FIVE TRIMS FT. ATKINSON

Defeat Fort Atkinson High School Basketball Team in Exciting Game in College Gym Saturday Night, 23-13. (SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Milton, Jan. 17.—In one of the most exciting games of the season, Milton high put over a win on the crack Fort team at the college gym Saturday night. The Fort had recently defeated the Jefferson bunch and were very confident that they could defeat Milton.

In the first half the Fort left two of their regular players out of the line-up and used two subs, planning to come back strong in the second half. The playing was fast and snappy from the start and the teams seemed quite evenly matched. Toward the close of the half the local boys seemed to display better teamwork, but had hard luck locating the basket. The half ended 8 to 7 in Milton's favor.

The Fort came back with their regulars in the second half, but the Milton boys started off with a lot of pep and were soon going at top speed. Three baskets were made in rapid succession by the home boys, then the guarding on both sides lightened up and a strenuous hand of basketball was thrown on the screen for the next ten minutes and several fouls were called. Just before the close of the half the visitors got in a good run of teamwork and scored three baskets, but they soon lagged again and allowed Milton to land a few well-aimed shots. The score for the last half was 15 to 6 in favor of the home crew.

The visitors seemed to display their best brand of ball in the first half, while using their two subs. Milton showed great improvement in teamwork, and while Capt. Randolph scored in the scoring, with six baskets, both Gray and Babcock did excellent work in back up throws at the basket and accurate passing. The guards, Godger and Maxson, deserve credit for breaking up the Fort plays and defending their goal. The Fort boys are a clean, manly bunch. Nels Sorenson of the college acted as referee, to the satisfaction of all concerned.

College Five Loss. The Milton college basketball team suffered two defeats on their late trip. Plattville normal beat them 28 to 20 and the Campion college quint at Prairie du Chien, trimmed them to the tune of 37 to 21.

Personal. Misses Eliza Holmes and Bella Walker of Milwaukee were in attendance at the funeral of James McEwan.

The funeral services of the late James McEwan were held Saturday afternoon and were conducted by President Carrier of Carroll college, Waukesha.

The funeral services of the late Peter Tomkins were held Sunday afternoon from the house, President W. C. Daland officiating, assisted by Rev. H. M. Barbour. Agents Calvert of Whitewater, Wilson of Palmyra, and D. J. Connor of Milwaukee, represented the railroad company.

The Rebeah convention of district No. 23 will hold its session here as guests of L. O. O. P. lodge Tuesday, January 18, at 1 P. M. E. Hall.

FINANCIAL ISSUE IS TAKEN ON PROHIBITION IN STATE OF NEBRASKA.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 17.—First guns are booming in the wet and dry fight in this, W. J. Bryan's home state.

Bombardment of the public with the heavy artillery of both factions will culminate in a victorious vote for the wets or the dries at the November 7th voting throughout Nebraska.

The moral issue is not stressed in this prohibition campaign. The wets are seeking in various ways to show the people, particularly the farmers, wherein dry territory is going to hurt business and bring farm and other products' prices down.

The dries are seeking to show the people where the liquor business makes for false prosperity and really accomplishes more physical and financial harm than good. The dry fight is in charge of a democratic-republican-progressive, non-partisan federation which expects to put a state and local tickets in the field this fall.

According to the anti-saloon league, Nebraska now has twenty-eight dry counties with 153,653 population; 351 dry and 215 wet towns, 54 dry and 38 wet county seat towns and a lot of 890 saloons in the state. Forty thousand Nebraskans must ask that the prohibition question be submitted to a vote before it will be placed on the ballot. These petitions are being prepared by the dries now.

The Lone Wolf

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

(Copyright, by Louis Joseph Vance.)

"In other words, you need me. You say to yourselves: 'We'll pretend to be the head of a criminal syndicate, such as the utterly avowed syndicate, writing about, and well threaten to put him out of business unless he comes to our terms.' But you overlook one important fact: that you are not mentally equipped to get away with this amusing impersonation! What! Do you expect me to accept you as leading spirits of a gigantic criminal system—you, Popinot, who live by standing between the police and your murderous rats of Belleville, or you, Wertheimer, sneak thief and blackmailer of timid women, or you, De Morbihan, because you owe your income by showing a handful of second-story men where to seek plunder in the houses of your friends?"

He made a gesture of impatience and lounged back to await the answer to this indictment. His gaze, ranging the four, encountered but one face that was not darkly flushed with resentment, and this was the American's.

"Aren't you forgetting me?" this last suggested gently.

"On the contrary, I refuse to recognize you in this conference as long as you lack courage to show your face."

"As you will, my friend," the American chuckled. "Make your profit out of that any way you like."

Lanyard sat up again. "Well, I've stated your case. It amounts to simple, clumsy blackmail. I'm to split my earnings with you or you'll denounce me to the police. That's about it, isn't it?"

"Not of necessity," De Morbihan purred softly, twisting his mustache. "For my part," Popinot declared hotly, "I engage that monsieur of the ing those matters," Wertheimer ventured. "None the less, if I refuse, you declare war?"

"Something like that," the American admitted.

"In that case—I am now able to state my position definitely," Lanyard got up and grinned provokingly down at the group. "You can—all four of you—go plumb to—!"

"My dear friend!" the count cried, shocked, "you forgot—"

"I forgot nothing!" Lanyard cut in coldly, "and my decision is final. Consider yourselves at liberty to go ahead and do your little worst! But don't forget that it is you who have been the aggressors. Already you've had the insolence to interfere with my arrangements—you began offensive operations before you declared war. So now, if you're hit beneath the belt you mustn't complain—you've asked for it!"

"Now what do you mean by that?" the American drawled with an accent of irony.

"I leave you to figure it out for yourselves. But I will say this: I confidently expect you to decide to live and let live, and shall be sorry, as you'll certainly be sorry, if you force my hand."

He opened the door, turned, and saluted them with sarcastic punctilio. "I have the honor to bid adieu to messieurs, the council of—the Pack!"

CHAPTER X.

Disaster.

Having fulfilled his purpose of making himself acquainted with the individuals composing the opposition, Lanyard shut the door in their faces, thrust his hands in his pockets, and sauntered downstairs, chuckling, his nose in the air, on the best of terms with himself.

True, the fat was in the fire and well ablaze—he had to look to himself now and go warily in the shadow of their enmity. But it was something to have faced down those four, if he wasn't seriously impressed by any one of them.

Popinot, perhaps, was the most dangerous, a vindictive animal, and the creature he controlled a murderous lot—drug-ridden, drink-bedecked, vicious little rats of Belleville, who'd knife a man for the price of an abstinence. But Popinot wouldn't move without leave from De Morbihan, and unless Lanyard's calculations were seriously miscast, De Morbihan would restrain both himself and his associates until thoroughly convinced Lanyard was impregnable against every form of suasion.

Murder was something a bit out of De Morbihan's line—something which, at least, he could be counted on to hold in reserve. And by the time he was ready to employ it, Lanyard would be well beyond his reach. Wertheimer, too, would deprecate violence until all else had failed; his half-caste type was cowardly, and cowards kill only impulsively, before they've had time to weigh the consequences. There remained "Smith"—enigma; a man apparently gifted with both intelligence and character. But if so, what the deuce was he doing in such company?

Lanyard's place at the table of chemin de fer had been filled by another, and, too impatient to await a vacancy, he wandered on to the salon dedicated to roulette, tested his luck by staking a note of 500 francs on the black, won, and incontinently subsided into a chair and oblivion for the space of three-quarters of an hour.

At the end of that period he found himself minus his heavy winnings at chemin de fer and the ten thousand francs of his reserve fund as well.

By way of a lining to his pockets there remained precisely the sum which he had brought into Paris that same evening, less subsequent general expenses.

The experience was no novelty in his history. He rose, less resentful than regretful that his ill luck obliged him to quit just when play was growing most interesting, and resignedly sought the cloakroom.

And there he found De Morbihan—again!—standing all garmented for the street, moulting a huge cigar and wearing a look of impatient discontent.

"At last!" he cried in an aggrieved tone as Lanyard appeared. "You do take your time, my friend!"

Lanyard smothered with a smile whatever emotion was his.

"I don't suppose you really meant to wait for me," he parried, with double meaning, both to humor De Morbihan and hoodwink the attendant.

"What do you think?" retorted the count with asperity—"that I'm willing to stand by and let you moon around Paris at this hour of the morning, hunting for a taxicab that isn't there and running God knows what risk of being stuck up, by some misbegotten Apache? But I should say not! I mean to take you home in my car, though it cost me a half-hour of beauty sleep not lightly to be forfeited at my age!"

The significance that underlay the semibumorous petulance of the little man was not wasted.

"You're most amiable, M. le Comte!" Lanyard said thoughtfully, while the attendant produced his hat and coat. "But now, if you're ready, I won't delay you longer."

In another moment they were outside the clubhouse, its doors closed behind them, while before them, waiting at the curb, was that same handsome black limousine which had brought the adventurer from l'Abbaye.

Two swift glances, right and left, showed him an empty street, destitute of hint of danger.

"One moment, monsieur!" he said, detaching the count with a touch on his sleeve. "It's only right that I should advise you. I'm armed."

"Then you're less foolhardy than one feared. If such things interest you, I don't mind admitting I carry a life-preserver of my own. But what of that? Is one eager to go shooting, at this time of night, for the sheer fun of explaining to the police that one has been attacked by Apaches? Providing one lived to explain!"

"It's as bad as that, oh?"

"Enough to make me loath to linger at your side in a lighted doorway!" Lanyard laughed in his own discomfiture.

"M. le Comte," said he, "there's a dash in you of what your American confrere, Mysterious Smith, would call sporting blood that commands my unstinted admiration. I thank you for your offered courtesy, and beg leave to accept."

De Morbihan replied with a grunt of none too civil intonation, instructed the chauffeur "To Troyon's," and followed Lanyard into the car.

"Courtesy!" he repeated, settling himself with a shake. "That makes nothing. If I regarded my own inclinations, I'd let you go to the devil as quick as Popinot's assassins could send you there!"

"On your person," replied the count briefly.

"Eh?"

"You carry your reason with you, my friend—in the shape of the Omber loot."

"Assuming that you are right—"

"You never went to the Rue du Bac, monsieur, without those jewels, and I have had you under observation ever since."

"What conceivable interest," Lanyard pursued evenly, "do you fancy you've got in the said loot?"

"Enough, at least, to render me unwilling to kiss it adieu by leaving you to the mercies of Popinot. You don't imagine I'd ever hear of it again when his Apaches had finished with you?"

"Ah! So, after all, your self-styled organization isn't founded on that reciprocal trust so essential to the success of such enterprises!"

"Make what you will of your inferences, my friend," the count returned, unruffled; "but don't forget my advice: pull wide of Popinot!"

"A vindictive soul, eh?"

"One may say that."

"And you can't hold him?"

"That one? No fear! You were anything but wise to bait him as you did."

"Perhaps. It's purely a matter of taste in associates."

"If I were the fool you think me," rejoined the count, "I'd resent that innuendo. As it happens, I'm not. At least, I can wait before calling you to account."

"And, meantime, profit by your patience?"

"Naturally. Haven't I said as much?"

"Still I'm perplexed. I can't imagine how you reckon to declare yourself in on the Omber loot."

"That will transpire, if you were wise you'd hand the stuff over to me here and now and accept what I choose to give you in return. But inasmuch as you're the least wise of men, you will have your lesson."

"Meaning—"

"The night brings counsel—you'll have time to think things over. By tomorrow you'll be coming to find me and give me those jewels, without reservation, in exchange for what influence I have in certain quarters."

"With your famous friend, the chief of the surete, eh?"

"Possibly. I am known also at La Tour Pointure."

"I confess I don't follow you, unless you mean to lay an information against me."

"Never that."

"It's a riddle, then?"

"For the moment only. But I will say this: It will be futile, your attempting to escape Paris; Popinot has already picketed every outlet. Your one hope resides in me; and I shall be at home to you until midnight tomorrow—today, rather."

Impressed in spite of himself, Lanyard stared. But the count maintained an imperturbable manner, looking straight ahead. Such calm assurance could hardly be sheer bluff.

"I must think this over," Lanyard muttered.

"Pray don't let me hinder you," the count begged with mild irony. "I have my futile thoughts as well."

Lanyard laughed quietly and subsided into a reverie which, undisturbed by De Morbihan, endured throughout the brief remainder of their drive; for, thanks to the smallness of the hour, the streets were practically deserted and offered no hindrance to speed, while the chauffeur was doubtless eager for his bed.

As they drew near Troyon's, however, Lanyard sat up and jealously reconnoitered both sides of the way.

"Surely you don't expect to be kept out?" the count asked dryly. "But that just shows how little you appreciate our good Popinot. He'll never offer any objection to your locking yourself up where he knows he can find you—but only to your leaving without permission!"

"Something in that, perhaps. Still, I always give myself the benefit of every doubt."

Mean.

"There goes a man after my own heart," said she.

"That's all right," he retorted. "He's in no danger so long as he keeps on in the direction he's going."—Detroit Press.

Farmers Profit by Use of Want Ads.

The question of fresh eggs has been solved by several families in Janesville who read the Gazette Want Ads and grasped the opportunity offered by the following advertiser. Other farmers could sell eggs, butter and produce quickly at or even higher than market prices by telling the public about it through the Gazette Want Ads.

Gazette Printing Co. Janesville, Jan. 7, 1916.
I put an add in the Gazette Dec. 29th, fresh eggs for sale, and received nineteen calls from people wanting eggs. Following is the advertisement:

Dinner Stories

The country preacher knew that he had offended many of his parishioners by advocating the closing of a certain right of way which the public had been accustomed to use, but he never knew how seriously he had offended them until he had a talk with a man who had got religion at a recent revival meeting.

"So you want to know exactly what the folk up my way are saying, eh? Is that it?" asked the parishioner.

"It is," said the preacher.

"Well," was the diplomatic reply, "all I can say is it's a pity you didn't ask me before I got converted."

"Now, Robert," said his teacher, "if your mother gave you two apples and your brother gave you three more, how many would you have?"

"I'd have two good apples and three wormy ones," was Robert's prompt reply.

As the family sat grouped about the library table the little son looked up from his book and asked:

"Papa, what is an egotist?"

"An egotist," the father answered, "is a man who thinks he is cleverer than anyone else."

But the mother, laughing coldly, appended:

"No, my son, that is not quite right. An egotist is a man who says he is cleverer than anyone else—every man thinks he is."

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Jan. 17, 1876.—The circuit court is still hammering away on the windmill suit from Beloit. It is a bad suit to get the wind out of because there is a windmill in it.

It has been reported a number of times on the street that the young girl who poisoned herself at the second ward school last week is dead. The report is false. The girl is in a fair way of recovery.

At a meeting of the Art association on Saturday night, Dr. G. L. Martin resigned his position as vice president and Mrs. S. S. Judd was appointed in his place.

Several members of the Wisconsin legislature assembled here today on their way to Madison.

The streets of the city were crowded today with many people from the country. Merchants report that business has been brisk.

WOMAN'S PAGE

Marrying for Money

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

With a face lighted with joy, Ortrude Townsend opened the door of the handsome new house that her husband had fitted up for his bride. It had been a good month, this month of her honeymoon. She had thoughtfully engaged the best of the expensive hotels. The experience was certainly gratifying. The beautiful rooming of the servants satisfied her inborn desire to rule over everyone about her. There was no use denying that her costly clothing and the hatched her proud beauty and she thrilled with pride when she felt the admiring glances that followed her rather spectacular entrance into the dining room. The month had been happy for Jacob Townsend also. He knew that he was giving his bride pleasure; he even dreamed that she was beginning to care for him; her manner was certainly graceful. He knew that every man enjoys seeing his wife create a sensation.

The housekeeper who had served the household for years met her at the door and asked if it would be convenient to serve the dinner in half an hour.

"Oh, yes," said Ortrude airily. "We will not dress for dinner tonight."

"That's good," Mrs. Tupper made a wry face. "We always dress for breakfast in this house."

Mr. Townsend, who was bringing in the suitcases, heard the reply and laughed.

"I wonder at you, Mr. Townsend. I do not intend to permit any such familiarity in my servants," Ortrude swept disdainfully into the parlor. Her husband carried the suitcases on up the stairs and she heard his heavy groaning of Dudley and Miriam. When she came down again he entered the parlor and softly closed the door behind him.

"I want to warn you, dear," he began, "that you cannot expect to treat Mrs. Tupper as you did the hotel servants, and keep her. Ortrude tossed her head. "She is very competent. She knows the house and one else in town who has such help."

"Don't say 'help,' Mr. Townsend; it sounds so condescending," interrupted his wife.

Jacob's face flushed. He was silent for a minute, then continued: "You would find it very disagreeable to do your own work, or to break in now here. He said the word distinctly. "You see we are not in the city and had better be content to remain contented if we do not want to live in a class by ourselves."

Again Ortrude tossed her head and said nothing.

"Besides," he continued in a caressing tone, "don't you think we are well enough acquainted by this time so that you can call me by my given name?"

"I do not like the name of Jacob," Ortrude was looking at her perfectly manicured hands. "It sounds so—Jewish."

Her husband rose and walked to the window, and stood looking out into the summer night.

"What is your middle name?" asked Ortrude when the silence began to be oppressive.

"Carroll,"

"And you lived; how robust you must be," laughed his wife.

"I must get ready for dinner," she said, rising. Jacob said nothing.

When she came downstairs the children were in the parlor and came forward to shake hands. "Dinner is all on the table," announced Mrs. Tupper from the hall. (To be continued.)

QUAINT COSTUME FOR SKATING GIRL

In this striking skating costume there is a suggestion of the costumes worn by the Dutch and Swedish women. The model is of black velvet with a deep edge of fur on the skirt bottom. Loose kimono sleeves have deep cuffs trimmed with white fur, and a white choker collar of the same fur is used to good effect. The Dutch bodice is trimmed with alternate bands of black and white velvet and large loops of the same material are used about the pockets.

Household Hints

Beads the Kiddies Can Make.
These are pretty, inexpensive beads that the children can make. Select whole grains of spice, as many as desired. Divide the quantity into two equal parts. Dissolve one part of the grains in half cup of hot water. Soak spice in it for fifteen minutes. String one of each color till all are used. Instead of using very fine needle and thread to string beads (especially those which have small eyes), use a long horse hair and fasten ends securely. No needle is required, the hair will not break like thread, and it is stronger than any thread made. Let children try it.

FOR THE BABY.
To keep baby covered at night sew at intervals along sides of the unders of blankets and quilts weights such as are used by dressmakers to hold coats down. Baby can move freely in his bed and the covers remain in place.

THE TABLE.
Beef Broth and Macaroni—Boil a piece of beef; when just about done top in one box macaroni and one pint tomatoes; makes extra good soup. Cook macaroni about one-half hour.

Veal Croquettes.—One cup boiled rice, one cup finely chopped veal, one-half cup milk, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon salt, a little pepper, one egg. Put milk, meat, rice and seasoning to boil in double boiler. When boiled add egg well beaten, stir one minute, cool mixture. Shape in croquettes, dip in beaten egg, then bread crumbs; fry in hot lard like doughnuts.

Superlative Pie Crust (original).—Especially good for those troubled with indigestion. Make as usual your pie dough, omitting half of the usual shortening, and use thick sour milk instead of water. You will have the flakiest pie crust that you ever tasted, and which both young and old can enjoy. Sour milk is better for the stomach than so much shortening.

Baked Sliced Ham.—Slice ham one inch thick, cover with milk and half cup white sugar. Bake real slow for two hours.

Filled Cookies.—Two cups granulated sugar, one cup butter and mixed, two eggs, two teaspoons vanilla, one cup sweet milk, four teaspoons baking powder, two teaspoons soda. Five or six cups of filling (have cooled to put between). Two cups chopped raisins, one cup sugar, two tablespoons flour, one cup water; boil until thick. Roll cookie dough thin as possible, cut out, arrange in pans; put filling on about one spoon to a cookie, then put another layer of dough on top. Bake the filling between layers or dough.

New Rabbit Recipe.—Clean rabbit thoroughly and put in salt water for ten hours, or over night. Drain off water and wipe dry on clean cloth. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dip in flour. Fry in smoking hot lard and butter. When it browns on one side, turn. Fry brown on the other side, put frying pan in the oven. Let it cook thirty minutes in oven (which should be hot), then add one-half cup boiling water and let cook fifteen minutes longer in oven; or it can be put in a kettle and cooked on top of stove. This makes the gravy brown, while the old-fashioned fried rabbit is light colored. It also takes away the wild taste that so many people dislike. Chicken or other meat is also delicious cooked in this way.

Extra Good Oatmeal.—Take water from boiled potatoes and pour this into the kettle or skillet from which you have taken meat; you will find you have much better gravy than just by taking "clear water."

Oatmeal Bread.—One and one-half cups rolled oats stirred in one quart boiling water. Roll till tender. Let cool, add one cake compressed yeast dissolved in one-half cup warm water, then add one-half cup molasses, one large spoonful lard, salt to taste. Knead this all with flour, like bread dough. Let rise over night, in the morning form into three loaves, put in pans, let rise until light, then bake about three-fourths hour in oven not too hot.

PREPARING SOUP.
When soup is nearly done set the kettle in a dispan full of cold water and pour a cupful of cold water into the soup. The grease will rise at once to the top and can be skimmed off. The soup can be finished for immediate use.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

CONCERNING A CERTAIN CAT.

Certain of our friends who do not altogether approve of us insist that they wouldn't have us "doctor a sick cat." We crave their indulgence for intruding these simple remarks about the doctor's own cat. Surely a doctor is entitled to mistreat his own animal.

Well, Tom is a giant and a royal household pet. Without a purr of protest he has submitted to a nine months' study which, we think, has not been entirely barren of results.

On one meal a day Tom has a pulse rate of 100, feels well, lazy, affectionate and contented with himself and his treatment.

On two meals a day, one being milk, the other mixed food from the table, the heart beat is 125 per minute. Tom is rather irritable, sometimes ugly. And we have some reason to assume that his liver troubles him at times.

On three meals a day, two of them consisting of meat, Tom exhibits a need of a good cholera mixture, his pulse rises to 180, his heart is irregular and in other ways he shows evidences of cat toxemia, or, as it is better known, auto-intoxication.

So we put him back on the original one meal a day plan, and presently he is himself again—friendly, docile, lazy, good to the children.

We haven't the slightest doubt that if we kept on feeding Tom with an excess of animal protein—meat, etc., not really necessary for him, etc., would have a series of fits and die.

And we would be wondering which of the wicked neighbors gave our poor old cat poison. Certainly many a neighbor, and many a household pet, reaches this conclusion.

But the purpose of our story, the moral to be drawn, is obvious. Too much meat will kill even a cat.

And remember how it works: It poisons the cardio-vascular system—the heart and arteries.

Then consider the fact that the death rate for persons over forty years of age is higher today than it was ten or fifteen years ago, although the death rate for all other ages is declining.

Finally, look over the meat bill and see how foolishly you are squandering your money.

As a matter of fact, corn meal, in the shape of Johnny cake, or that incomparable delicacy, fried corn meal mush, will "stay by" the hard-working man quite as well as meat, at a trifling cost, and without the meat toxemia.

Good Treatment For Fracture.
Please state for me if it is considered good treatment to remove splints every day for the first three weeks to examine a fractured elbow?

Answer.—That is about the way we would do it.

Cholecystitis—What is it?
What does "non-calculus cholecystitis" signify? Is it curable?

Answer.—Inflammation of gall-sacs without gallstones. It is generally curable by medical, dietetic or surgical means.

CALLS SHORT SKIRT MORALLY UNHEALTHY

Prof. O'Shea Sees Unwholesome Influence in Latest Styles Worn by Young Women.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 17.—The curtail skirt and the scanty waist of the well dressed girl are staggering under the severe blows which they have received from the hands of education. Prof. M. V. O'Shea of the department of education at the university has denounced the modish dress of our modern girl as morally unhealthy.

"The dress of our young girls is certainly not to be looked upon lightly in considering the stimulating influences to which the youth of today is subjected," said Prof. O'Shea. "Even though our ideas of modesty have been lulled into a hypnotic stupor by the degree of style we should still be aware to the fact that the obedience to such precepts of virtue is placing our youth in unwholesome, emotional and stimulating surroundings."

EUROPEAN POLITICS DID NOT INTEREST OLD SERB KINGS

Belgrade, Jan. 17.—European politics did not greatly interest the Serb kings before the war, but the reign of the royal family can be regarded as throwing light on the studies of the kingdom's rulers. No books of importance on political subjects were acquired before Peter's accession, but a very respectable number were added to the library in the twelve years of his reign.

RUMANIA SELLS HER GRAIN TO TEUTONS

Fifty Thousand Carloads of Goods Have Been Sold to the Central Powers.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Vienna, Jan. 17.—Rumania has sold to the Central Powers 50,000 carloads of cereals, mostly wheat, Indian corn and navy beans. The sale, unlike some others which preceded it, has been made at a reasonable market price, and no special inducements were offered, nor will it be necessary this time to engage in the wholesale bribing of Rumanian government and railroad officials to get the purchases out of the country.

Rumania was obliged to sell to the Central Powers because she cannot sell to anybody else. The closing of the Dardanelles has locked the gates to other markets, and Russia, the only other Entente power with whom Rumania now has physical contact, is not in the market for Rumanian cereals. As long as Serbia was still a fact and a neighbor, Rumania was able to ship some of her foodstuffs to Saloniki, from where they could be reached by Entente and neutral countries. Now this route is closed.

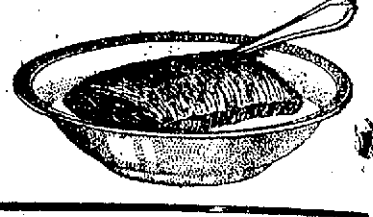

With the conquest of Serbia, the Central Powers have gained a great economic advantage. Rumania must sell to them, if she does not want to have her crops rot on her hands, and what is considered just as important, here, must sell on terms more favorable to Germany and Austria-Hungary than she has in the past.

But in addition to selling to the two empires, Rumania is also exporting much food to Bulgaria, the new eastern Balkan through route.

In addition to having no market for Rumanian grain and other foodstuffs, Russia has enough mineral oil of her own, so Rumania will be obliged to sell this necessity to the power group of belligerents. Negotiations for a more advantageous sale basis are said to be in progress.

Rumania's attitude in these matters, too, has a diplomatic background. Her government intends to remain neutral so long as possible, and it is declared she will join the Central Powers in case pressure from Entente quarrels obliges her to take action. Well-informed circles here explain the situation in this manner. The recent mining of the Rumanian Danube stretches seems to support this view. The mining of these waters would embarrass no other than Russian shipping.

Meanwhile the Bucharest press has begun to speak in plain terms of Serbia's fate and the difficulty of Greece's position. There is still a large Austro-Hungarian force on the Rumanian frontier, and papers like the Bucharest Moldava never weary in pointing out that a hostile move towards Austria-Hungary or Bulgaria would make the country a "third Belgium."

Heart and Home Problems

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson. Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Can you tell me something that will make my hair grow. I had my hair cut in bangs this fall and am trying to get them to grow out.

(2) Is a blue sweater with orange stripes healthy? If not, mention a kind that is besides red. I have red.

(3) What is a good name for a sewing club of ten girls? Mention several names.

(4) Is it right for a girl fifteen years old to work out when there is no school?

(5) Is it best for someone to select your clothes or do so yourself?

(6) Do you think it is right for a girl to dance? My boy friend does not believe in dancing, yet he does not oppose my dancing. It is his parents who object.

(7) Is a blue dress and a white, tan and a brown coat stylish?

(8) Is it all right for a young person to sleep with an older person?

BLUE EYES AND DIMPLES.
(1) Massage the scalp every night and morning with a little vaseline or a good hair tonic. There are good tonics on the market. Have the druggist recommend one.

(2) Should think a blue sweater with orange stripes would be very sporty. I myself would prefer something less striking—plain blue, white or brown, for instance.

(3) The Jenny Wren Club, Blue Birds, Little Women, Pink Ladies.

(4) Yes.

(5) It is good to use one's originality in selecting clothes, but it is wise to have the opinion of someone else, too.

(6) I personally think dancing is all right.

(7) A blue dress looks better with a blue coat.

SIDE TALKS

THE VIOLETS.

A young married couple went calling one right on an engaged girl.

During the call the door bell rang, and a messenger boy handed in a square box for the hostess. She opened it, and, delight of delights, it was the one gift most engaged girls like best of all to receive from their fiancés—a great, fragrant bunch of violets.

She was Envious, and Showed It.

The two girls buried their noses in the violets, and the married girl was frankly envious.

"Isn't it lovely to be engaged and get violets?" she said to the engaged girl.

And again, a little later, "Harry, do you remember when you used to bring me violets, or is it too long ago?"

And yet again, "I don't know when I ever saw a lovelier bunch than that in fact, except in the florist's window. Let at all. I haven't seen any violets, you know, my dear."

he is being rebuked.

She just "Didn't Realize."

She, for her part, is a kind-hearted young woman, and she loves her husband very much. She simply didn't realize how unfair she was being. She was hurting him. I think a great many women are tactless this way. They do not seem to realize that their envy of other women's husbands is an indictment of their own.

All men can't win the material prizes of life. Some of the best and most worth-while men are incapable of making money, just as there are some men who never get the best places in a crowd.

The woman with the best kind of taste will never reproach such a man, even by the implied reproach of frequently saying "I wish you were like other women's husbands."
